

VAHID ZOLFAGHARI

UNIVERSITY OF BAMBERG

zolfaghari.vahid@gmail.com

CONTRIBUTION

I desire to prepare a foundation for students who are trying to write papers and books. Accordingly, we need to gather some experts in order to focus on it. The main reason is that there are so many methods for writing and every author has their own methodology. It is therefore necessary to provide not only a workshop for PhD students, but also a network for academician proficient to exchange their opinions and develop their reserve in political science and comparative politics.

EXPERIENCE

I have experience in writing several articles with different methods. I am currently writing two books about political science and comparative politics. I am also teaching and am a research assistant in my university. I have had experience visiting experts in political science and exchanged views in order to progress the methods of writing. We need to provide a network for PhD students and some professors to be able to discuss around this important issue which in my opinion has been marginalised.

OTHER INFORMATION

I am PhD student in Bamberg (Germany) researching “Intra-party and Inter-party conflict management in coalition government”. It would be great for me to coordinate with your institutions and also with PhD students in order to know their points of view. I think this method will provide suitable opportunity to not only share our knowledge, but also reform our scientific dearth.