

Members of the Standing Group on Political Representation

FirstName	Surname	Institution	Email	Brief Bio
Christine	ARNOLD	Maastricht University	c.arnold@maastrichtuniversity.nl
Katrin	AUEL	IHS Vienna	auel@ihs.ac.at
Ana Maria	BELCHIOR	Instituto Universitário de Lisboa	anamariabelchior@gmail.com	Ana Maria Belchior is an assistant professor at ISCTE-IUL (Instituto Universitário de Lisboa) in Lisbon, and researcher at CIES-IUL. She has been involved in research on projects related to the themes of political participation, democratic representation and political congruence, party pledges and policy agenda-setting. Recent publications include 2014 'Explaining MPs' perceptions of voters' positions in a party-mediated representation system: evidence from the Portuguese case', Party Politics , 20(3), pp. 403-415; 2013 'Explaining left-right party congruence across European party systems. A test of micro and macro level models', Comparative Political Studies , 46(3), pp. 352 - 386.
Richard	BELLAMY	EUI	R.Bellamy@ucl.ac.uk	Richard Bellamy is Professor of Political Science at University College London. His many publications include Liberalism and Pluralism: Towards a Politics of Compromise (Routledge, 1999) and Political Constitutionalism: A Republican Defence of the Constitutionality of Democracy (Cambridge University Press, 2007). His collection of essays on Croce, Gramsci, Bobbio and the Italian Political Tradition is forthcoming from ECPR Press (2014).
Christopher	BICKERTON	Cambridge University
James	BOHMAN	Saint Louis University	bohmanjf@slu.edu
Dario	CASTIGLIONE	University of Exeter	D.Castiglione@exeter.ac.uk
Gonzalo	CAVERO CANO		gonzalocarerocano@gmail.com
Damian	CHALMERS	LSE	D.Chalmers@lse.ac.uk
Ian	COOPER	ARENA, University of Oslo	r.i.cooper@arena.uio.no
Ben	CRUM	Free University Amsterdam	b.j.j.crum@vu.nl	Ben Crum is associate professor at the Department of Political Science of the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam. He works on the political theory of European integration. Among his recent publications are Learning from the EU Constitutional Treaty (Routledge 2012) and The Multilevel Parliamentary Field - A Framework for Theorising Representative Democracy in the EU (European Political Science Review 2009, with John Erik Fossum).
Pieter	DE WILDE	WZB Berlin	dewilde@wzb.eu
Olga	EISELE	Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS) Vienna	eisele@ihs.ac.at	Olga Eisele is currently working on a research project at the Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS) in Vienna. The project focusses on national parliaments' communication efforts in EU affairs and how media digest these efforts. In her PhD project she concentrates on the analysis of legitimization discourses about the European Parliament in the national media. She completed a BA degree in Scandinavian Studies at the Humboldt-University Berlin and holds an MA in European Studies at the European University Viadrina in Frankfurt/Oder.
Erik	ERIKSEN	ARENA, University of Oslo	e.o.eriksen@arena.uio.no
Michelle	EVERSON	Birkbeck College London	m.everson@bbk.ac.uk

FirstName	Surname	Institution	Email	Brief Bio
Alba	FERRERI		alba.siena@gmail.com	Alba Ferreri is a PhD candidate and teaching assistant in Comparative and European Politics at the University of Siena. Her research interests include European institutional politics and political representation – with a focus on the role of national parliaments vis-à-vis the European economic governance. She has also lately become ‘Certified Atlas.ti Student Trainer’. Amongst her publications, a recent book in Italian: “Capire le elezioni Europee: il modello SOE trent’anni dopo (1979-2009)” (Understanding EP elections: the SOE model thirty years later), Edizioni Accademiche Italiane, 2014.
John Erik	FOSSUM	ARENA, University of Oslo	J.E.Fossum@arena.uio.no	John Erik Fossum is Professor in Political Science at ARENA, Centre for European Studies at the University of Oslo. He was substitute coordinator of the FP6 project RECON and the FP5 project CIDEL, and is co-director of NORCONE (The Norwegian Constitution in a Changing European Context). Recent publications include: Rethinking Democracy and the European Union (2012, co-edited with Erik O. Eriksen); The Constitution’s Gift (2011, with Agustín Menéndez); and Practices of Inter-Parliamentary Coordination in International Politics – The European Union and Beyond , Essex: ECPR Press (co-edited with Ben Crum).
Dawid	FRIEDRICH	Leuphana University of Lüneburg	dawid.friedrich@uni.leuphana.de
Katjana	GATTERMANN	University of Amsterdam	K.gattermann@uva.nl	Dr Katjana Gattermann is a Postdoc at the Political Science Department of the University of Amsterdam. Her research interests include comparative politics and political communication with a focus on parliamentarians, political parties, electoral behaviour and public opinion in and across Europe. A recent publication is Gattermann, K. (2013) 'News about the European Parliament: Patterns and external drivers of broadsheet coverage', European Union Politics , 14(3): 436-457.
Mario	GAVENDA		gavenda@ihs.ac.at	Mario Gavenda is a PhD student in Political Science at the Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS) in Vienna (Austria). He holds a joint MA degree in Global Studies from the University of Leipzig (Germany) and the University of Wrocław (Poland), and a BA in Political Science from the University of Vienna. His doctoral research focuses on strategies of representation of European social-democratic parties. His research interests more broadly are democratic theory, party research, political economy and the politics of globalisation.
Samuel	HAYAT		samuel.hayat@univ-paris8.fr	Samuel Hayat is Postdoctoral Fellow at the Conservatoire National des Arts et Métiers in Paris and Assistant Lecturer at the American University of Paris. He works on the history and theory of political representation beyond representative government, and has recently edited with Yves Sintomer a special issue of the French journal Raisons politiques about political representation (2013).
Isabelle	HERTNER	University of Birmingham	i.hertner@bham.ac.uk
Carlo	INVERNIZZI ACCETTI		carloinvernizzi@gmail.com	Carlo Invernizzi Accetti is currently a Research Fellow at the Italian Academy for Advanced Studies at Columbia University and a lecturer at the Institut d’Etudes Politiques de Paris. He obtained a PhD in Political Theory from Columbia University in 2012. A revised version of his doctoral dissertation is currently in the process of being published by Columbia University Press, with the title Relativism in Democracy. Religious Discourse and Democratic Theory in Post-Secular Societies .
Lucy	KINSKI	Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS) Vienna	kinski@ihs.ac.at	Lucy Kinski is a research assistant and PhD student in the research project PACE – Parliamentary Communication of Europe at the Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS) in Vienna. She studied Public Policy at the Hertie School of Governance in Berlin and the Institut de Hautes Études Internationales et du Développement in Geneva. Her doctoral research focuses on the Europeanization of representative patterns by national parliamentarians. Her broader research interests are EU politics, legislative studies and political communication.

FirstName	Surname	Institution	Email	Brief Bio
Sandra	KRÖGER	University of Exeter	s.kroeger@exeter.ac.uk	Dr. Sandra Kröger is a lecturer at the politics department of the University of Exeter. Her research interests include the contribution of functional representation to EU democracy, national parliaments in the EU, the EU's democratic deficit and democratic theory. She has edited a number of special issues and volumes on representation in the EU (with JEPP, JEI, Palgrave and Routledge, 2012-2014). She is the administrator of a website on representation in Europe: http://www.representation-in-europe.net
Helle	KRUNKE		Helle.Krunke@jur.ku.dk	Professor Dr. Helle Krunke is Head of CECS at the Faculty of Law, University of Copenhagen. Her research interests include: Parliamentary control of EU policy and foreign affairs, democracy in the EU, constitutionalisation process in the EU, balance of powers between EU institutions and between the European and national level, constitutional change, constitutional identity.
Joseph	LACEY		joseph.lacey@eui.eu	Joseph Lacey is a PhD candidate at the European University Institute, researching democratic institutions and political community formation in diverse contexts.
Zoe	LEFKOFRIDI		Zoe.Lefkofridi@EUI.eu	Zoe Lefkofridi is a Max Weber fellow at the Department of Social and Political Sciences of the European University Institute (EUI), Florence. She is researching democracy and political representation in Europe, with a focus on inequalities and extremism.
Arndt	LEININGER	Hertie School of Governance		Arndt Leininger is a PhD candidate in the PhD in Governance programme at the Hertie School of Governance, Berlin. His dissertation focuses on Direct democracy and representative government.
Christine	LESTON-BANDEIRA		C.C.Leston-Bandeira@hull.ac.uk	Cristina Leston-Bandeira is a Senior Lecturer in legislative studies at the School of Politics, Philosophy and International Studies, University of Hull, UK. She works on comparative legislatures, focusing in particular on the relationship between parliament and citizens. This has led her recently to focus on public engagement and to explore different meanings associated to the representative link between the institution and citizens. She has recently edited a book on Parliaments and Citizens (Routledge).
Ulrike	LIEBERT	University of Bremen	liebert.u@googlemail.com
Jelena	LONCAR	University of York	loncar.jelena@gmail.com	Jelena Loncar is a PhD candidate in the Department of Politics at the University of York, UK and a teaching assistant at the University of Belgrade, Faculty of Political Science. Her doctoral research focuses on the relationship between descriptive and substantive representation of national minorities in Serbia and Kosovo. She is also interested in gender quota, safe seats for minorities and how intersecting identities influence political representation.
Anthoula	MALKOPOULOU		anthoula.malkopoulou@jyu.fi	Anthoula Malkopoulou is a post-doctoral researcher in Politics at the University of Jyväskylä. Previously, she was Erik Allardt Fellow at the Swedish Collegium for Advanced Study, Uppsala. She is interested in the historical and conceptual analysis of electoral institutions, including compulsory voting, recall elections, ostracism and sortition.
Maija	MATTILA		maija.mattila@uta.fi	Maija Mattila is a PhD candidate in political science at the University of Tampere (Finland). Her doctoral research analyses political representation in a context of civic activism, asking what are the relations between activism and institutional representation. More broadly, she is interested in democratic theory and the representative turn in it.
Benjamin	MOFFITT	Stockholm University	benjamin.moffitt@statsvet.su.se	Benjamin Moffitt is a Postdoc at the Department of Political Science at Stockholm University. His research is located at the intersection of contemporary political theory, comparative politics and political sociology, and focuses on contemporary populism across the globe. He is particularly interested in the ways in which populism is conceptualised, and how populism affects and interacts with democracy, political representation and contemporary media politics.

FirstName	Surname	Institution	Email	Brief Bio
Elizabeth	MONAGHAN		e.monaghan@hull.ac.uk
Laura	MONTANARO	University of Essex	lmontanaro@uchicago.edu
Rainbow	MURRAY		rainbowmurray@gmail.com	Rainbow Murray is Reader at Queen Mary, University of London. She works on comparative representative democracy, with particular expertise on France. Her research interests include gender quotas, parliaments, elections, political recruitment, parties, and the relationship between who politicians are and what they do. She is author of " Parties, Gender Quotas and Candidate Selection in France ".
Kyriaki	NANOU	University of Nottingham	kyriaki.nanou@nottingham.ac.uk	Kyriaki Nanou is a Lecturer in European politics and co-director of the CCPR at the School of Politics and IR, University of Nottingham. Her research focus is on issues relating to European integration, Euroscepticism, comparative European politics, party competition, rational choice and quantitative research methods. Current research interests include the effects of Europeanisation of domestic politics on democratic representation.
Sofia	NÄSSTRÖM	Uppsala University	sofia.nasstrom@statsvet.uu.se
Eva H.	ÖNNUDÓTTIR	CDSS/University of Mannheim	eonnudot@mail.uni-mannheim.de	Eva H. Önnudóttir is a PhD candidate at the CDSS/University of Mannheim. Her main research interests are; representation, voters, parties, candidates and modern democracy. Eva H. Önnudóttir is a member of the Icelandic National Election Study (ICENES), the Comparative Candidate Surveys (CCS) and the True European (TEV) project.
Yvette	PETERS	Humboldt University Berlin	petersyv@cms.hu-berlin.de	Yvette Peters is a lecturer at the chair of comparative politics, Humboldt University. Her research deals broadly with the functioning of representative democracies. She is interested in how institutional structures influence people's behaviour (different forms of political participation) and the way representation works (responsiveness and responsibility).
Johannes	POLLAK	IHS Vienna	pollak@ihs.ac.at	Johannes Pollak is Professor of Political Science at Webster University Vienna and Head of the Political Science Department at the Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS). He was previously a Jean Monnet fellow at the Schuman Centre of the European University Institute, Florence; a Leverhulme Fellow at the University of Reading; and a Senior Visiting Fellow at the LSE. Main research areas: European democracy, democratic theory, political representation and EU energy politics.
Sonja	PUNTSCHER RIEKMANN	University of Salzburg	sonja.puntscher-riekmann@sbg.ac.at	Sonja Puntscher Riekman is Professor for Political Theory and European Integration at the Department of Political Science and Sociology, University of Salzburg. She is also a Jean Monnet Professor and Director of the Salzburg Centre of European Union Studies. Her research focus is on EU democracy and representation, financial and fiscal regulation, post-crisis constitutional development.
Anne	RASMUSSEN	University of Copenhagen	a.rasmussen@cdh.leidenuniv.nl
Tapio	RAUNIO	University of Tampere	Tapio.Raunio@uta.fi	Tapio Raunio is Professor of political science at the University of Tampere. His research interests include the role of national legislatures and parties in European integration, the European Parliament and Europarties, Nordic legislatures and the Finnish political system. He is currently leading a research project with David Arter that examines the links between Nordic parliaments and MPs and their electorates.
Jenni	RINNE	University of Helsinki	jenni.rinne@helsinki.fi	Jenni Rinne is a junior researcher and PhD student in Political Science at the University of Helsinki. Her dissertation concerns the incorporation of deliberation into the concept of political representation. The study focuses on parliamentary setting, i.e. Finnish Eduskunta.
Richard	ROSE	University of Strathclyde	prof_r_rose@yahoo.co.uk

FirstName	Surname	Institution	Email	Brief Bio
Didier	RUEDIN	University of Neuchâtel	didier.ruedin@unine.ch	Didier Ruedin (DPhil, Oxford) is a researcher at the Swiss Forum for Migration and Population Studies at the University of Neuchâtel. His work on political representation covers several aspects, including the descriptive representation of women and ethnic groups in national legislatures, and the measurement of political representation.
Sabine	SAURUGGER	Université de Grenoble	sabine.saurugger@sciencespo-grenoble.fr	Sabine Saurugger is Professor of Politics and Research Director at Sciences Po Grenoble, France as well as research fellow at the Institut universitaire de France (IUF). Her research focuses mainly on resistances to European integration, EU soft law and theories of European integration. She has just published Theoretical Approaches to European Integration with Palgrave MacMillan (European Union Series).
Michael	SAWARD	University of Warwick	M.J.Saward@warwick.ac.uk	Michael Saward is Professor of Politics and International Studies at the University of Warwick. His key research interests include: political and cultural representation; democratic design (including performative, deliberative, direct, and cosmopolitan models), political parties, and democratic citizenship; and 'everyday political theory'. Recent publications include: The Representative Claim (Oxford: Oxford University Press 2010); and 'The Wider Canvas: representation and democracy in state and society', in Alonso, S., Keane, J. and Merkel, W. (eds), The Future of Representative Democracy (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press 2010)
Eline	SEVERS		Eline.Severs@vub.ac.be	Eline Severs is a postdoctoral researcher and lecturer at the Vrije Universiteit Brussel. She is also the scientific coordinator of the Policy Research Centre of Equality Policies in Belgium. She conducts theoretical and empirical research on (democratic) representation and holds a general interest in issues of democratic inclusion. She is currently preparing a book (together with Karen Celis and Silvia Erzeel) on women's substantive representation.
Yves	SINTOMER		sy@cmb.hu-berlin.de
Stijn	SMISMANS	Cardiff University	SmismansS@cardiff.ac.uk
Alexander	SOMEK	University of Iowa	alexander-somek@uiowa.edu	Alexander Somek holds the Charles E. Floete Chair in Law at the College of Law of the University of Iowa. He was fellow at the Berlin Institute for Advanced Study and the Law and Public Affairs Program of Princeton University. His publications include Individualism: An Essay on the Authority of the European Union (2007) and Engineering Equality: An Essay on European Anti-Discrimination Law (2011).
Peter	STONE	University of Dublin	pstone@tcd.ie	Peter Stone is Ussher Assistant Professor of Political Science at Trinity College Dublin. His work concerns the scope and limits of reason in human affairs, with a focus upon problems of distributive justice and democratic theory. He is the author of The Luck of the Draw: The Role of Lotteries in Decision Making (Oxford University Press, 2011) and the editor of Lotteries in Public Life: A Reader (Imprint Academic, 2011).
Michael	TATHAM		tatham.michael@gmail.com	Michaël Tatham is Associate Professor at the Department of Comparative Politics, University of Bergen, Norway. He is Chair of the Council for European Studies research network on 'Territorial Politics and Federalism' and Editor of the journal Regional and Federal Studies . He works on federalism and regions in the EU, public policy analysis, and theories of European integration.
Hans-Jörg	TRENZ	Copenhagen Business School	H.J.Trenz@arena.uio.no
Nadia	URBINATI	Columbia University, New York	nu15@columbia.edu

FirstName	Surname	Institution	Email	Brief Bio
Sofia	VASILOPOULOU	University of York	sofia.vasilopoulou@york.ac.uk	Sofia Vasilopoulou is a Lecturer in the Department of Politics at the University of York, UK. She currently works on a number of projects examining the theme of political dissatisfaction with democracy and democratic institutions across Europe. These include Euroscepticism, the rise of the far right, and partisan response to the Eurozone crisis. She also has a keen interest in the democratic legitimacy of the Members of the European Parliament and the European Union more broadly.
Miguel	VATTER	University of New South Wales	m.vatter@unsw.edu.au	Miguel Vatter is Professor of politics at the School of Social Sciences, University of New South Wales, Australia. His main research interests are: history and theory of republicanism; political theology; and biopolitics. Among his recent publications are: Machiavelli's The Prince: A Reader's Guide (Bloomsbury 2013) and The Republic of the Living: Biopolitics and the Critique of Civil Society (Fordham University Press, forthcoming 2014).
Lars	VOGEL	Friedrich-Schiller University Jena	lars.vogel@uni-jena.de	Lars Vogel is research and teaching assistant at the University of Jena. He was coordinator of the project "Parliamentary Elites" (funded by the German Scientific Foundation), which conducted the Jena Parliamentarians Survey 2003-2010. His research interests include political representation, elite studies, and methods of empirical research.
Mark	WARREN	University of British Columbia	mwarren26@gmail.com	Mark E. Warren holds the Harold and Dorrie Merilees Chair for the Study of Democracy at the University of British Columbia. He is especially interested in democratic innovations, civil society and democratic governance, and political corruption. He is currently working with an international team on a project entitled Participedia (www.participedia.net), which uses a web-based platform to collect data about democratic innovation and participatory governance around the world.
Liam	WEEKS	University College Cork	L.Weeks@ucc.ie
Antje	WIENER	University of Hamburg	antje.wiener@wiso.uni-hamburg.de
Claudia	WIESNER		claudia.wiesner@jyu.fi
Nadja	WILKER	Heinrich-Heine-University Düsseldorf	nadja.wilker@uni-duesseldorf.de	Nadja Wilker is a PhD student in Political Science at the Institute for Social Science at the Heinrich-Heine-University of Düsseldorf (HHU). Nadja holds a MA in Political Communication. In her research she focusses on contemporary concepts of political representation in contexts of new forms of (online) participation and addresses questions of acceptance and legitimacy. Her broader interests are in theories and empirical research of representation of interests and online communication and participation.
Alex	WILSON	EUI
Arndt	WONKA	University of Bremen	awonka@bigsss-bremen.de	