CONTRIBUTION

I would like to be a professional guide for young scholars and researchers to reach their objectives: support for writing an abstract for call of paper selections, methodological support to develop thesis and research projects, seek editors for electronic review to publish articles and works; identify scholarships and other job opportunities within universities; help students to contact Professors linked with their research interests. My idea is to establish an individual contact with students and accompany them in their course of studies.

EXPERIENCE

I am a PhD candidate at Luiss Guido Carli University in Law and Business and in the last three years, I have been an advisor at the Italian Ministry of Economy and Finance, in which I have been a supervisor of their institutional website. Recently, I won the call of paper of ECPR Standing Group for two articles that I had already presented at Barcelona in July. On the topic of behavioural economics, I also won the call of paper of the RIA Observatory in Rome and I participated at a Conference on: Nudging in Europe at Liège. I have participated in a number of summer and winter school sessions, and in August I was invited as a member at Groningen University in Holland. Since 2012, I have been an assistant researcher at the Centre of Research on Public Administration and I am a member of the editorial board of the Competition and Market Review.

OTHER INFORMATION

Because of my father's work, I have lived in many cities and every time I have had to start from scratch, all this was not easy, we are not superheroes! But, I have met many colleagues and new places and developed my communication skills which I would like to offer other students.
