CONTRIBUTION

I will strongly contribute my personal efforts towards the strengthening of the ECPR Graduate Student Network by participating in forms of cooperation. I strongly think that ECPR has to demonstrate a collective voice towards the advance of political research by speaking a word of reason during our times.

EXPERIENCE

I have participated in many fora concerning advanced political research in Greece. I have also participated in many internet fora in Europe and the USA related to sociological and political research. I currently work as the Head of the Department of Planning and Design in the Municipality of Iraklio Attikis, a town north of Athens founded by German people in 1830.

OTHER INFORMATION

I was born in Melle, Germany and I am currently a PhD candidate at the University of Athens, Department of Politics and Public Administration. My research interests are: egovernance, local governance, globalisation, management, edemocracy and networks in a virtual environment. My PhD is related to the political consequences of the BPR efforts inside the Greek Public Administration.
